Frank Trimble Dead.

Wednesday's Commercial Appeal announced the death of Frank Trimble at his home, 23 S. Diana, street, Memphis on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The funeral was held Wednesday and interment was in Forrest Hill Cemetery, that city.

Mr. Trimble spent a number of years of his life in Somerville where he was an active business man. He left here a number of years ago and went to Memphis where he has since conducted a real estate business. Some weeks ago he underwent a serious operation from the effects of which he never recovered. Altho 75 years of age, he was in active business until a short time before his recent operation, and is said to have been so successful in his business that he had accumulated a large estate.

Many Somerville friends remember him with pleasure and esteem, for many of them were warm personal friends.

Moscow.

Another four gallons of whiskey, all nicely put up in pints, was seized by officer J. D. Pearce Saturday. The goods were in possession of a negro who stated the package was for a white man who had used his name in ordering and without his consent or knowledge. The case will be heard by Esq. John J. Steger Wednesday. Several local people are wondering if this lot will go the way a former shipment went—out on the cold, cold ground.

Every right thinking voter desires clean men in public office, and the men who fill the offices at home are of most importance to us.

S. W. SHERRILL,

State Superintendent.

Nashville, Tenn., October 1, 1915.

In accordance with section 1 of the law of Tennessee providing for the setting aside of the fourth Friday in October as Frances Willard Day, which reads as follows: Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That there shall be one day in each scholastic year of the public schools of the State set apart to be known as "Frances Willard Day," at which a suitable program shall be prepared and rendered, to the end that the children of the State may be taught the evils of intemperance.

Since writing the Arithmetic suggestions for last week the State Superintendent's announcement of a change in his plan has come to me. This announcement you will find in full in this column. He has decided to give the examination for December on spelling, reading, writing and grammar instead of arithmetic as was first proposed. So we will leave off the arithmetic and take up the four named.

SPELLING.

For the first week's lesson turn to page 5 in your Hunt's Progressive Speller and learn all the diacritical marks and the sounds of each vowel when marked with the different marks. Have some one pronounce to you—be sure they pronounce correctly every word on the first 25 pages of the book while you write each word on a slate or tablet. Go over your list when done each day and mark it critically.

Make a list in a blank book of all words you misspell and be sure you never misspell these again.

The second monthly meeting of the Fayette County Teachers' Association will meet at the High School, Saturday, October 16th, at 10 o'clock. The teachers are especially fortunate in having Prof. H. H. Clark, of the State University, with them for this meeting. Prof. Clark was formerly principal of the High School here and is remembered by a host of friends. Let us have a full attendance and give him a good hearing.

The program follows and it is hoped that all teachers will come prepared to take part in the discussions.

Opening exercises, Prof. D. K. Donnell.

Paper, The Teaching of Geography—J. S. Murphy.

Discussion—Led by Mrs. Lois Hobson. Address—Prof. H. H. Clark.

General Discussion—"Shall we have a County Educational Survey in Fayette County?" G. G. FOSKETT, President.

FRANCES WILLARD DAY IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS OCT. 22.

The subject of Scientific Temperance is rarely taught in the school until children reach the fifth or sixth grades. Experience shows that more than half of the children of the state drop out of school before reaching these grades, and so fail to get the benefit of the teaching. In order that the question may be brought to the attention of the children before they drop out of the school and the subject emphasized in their minds we sought and secured the passage of a law, establishing October 22, the fourth Friday in October as Frances Willard day in the public schools of the state. A suitable program is to be prepared by, or under the direction of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and sent out from his office to the principal of every public school in the state.

Farming With Lime.

Farmers don't buy your agricultural limestone until you have seen sample of our Soil-Tone, a finely-ground 99 per cent pure high-calcium limestone. Prof. H. A. Morgan, Director of the Tennessee Agricultural Experiment Station, Knoxville, states that Soil-Tone is of a very superior grade for agricultural purposes. We guarantee grade and fineness of Soil-Tone; other products are not guaranteed. This may mean a difference of $5 to $50 saving to you on every car of limestone you buy. Write us to-day for sample, prices, and bulletin telling you all about how to buy and use agricultural lime. Address
